MIL'S MUSINGS

By Richard Milbrodt

Some very interesting factual information was uncovered several days ago that should alter the thinking of those voters that still follow that school of philosophy that says, "My one vote doesn't mean a thing." And, it should reaffirm the faith of those voters that do not believe in the axiom.

The occasion for the discovery was a gathering at the hospital home of Mr. and Mrs. Sumner Alpert awesomely titled, Election Result Analysis. Although the flu epidemic hurt attendance, it didn't prevent the facts from being uncovered. After some diligent research in Nov. 1 election returns, Alpert (one of defeated-candidate Van Deelin's chiefest supporters) found that in the 28th district Congressional race, Lionel Van Deelin collected 49.9% of the total vote, Winner James Utt receiving, of course, 50.1%.

The result of all this was that with only 13 more votes, Van Deelin could have won Lemon Grove. Since there are 13 election precincts in Lemon Grove, only 1 more vote in each would have turned the trick. Remember this next election day. Especially if someone tries to tell you that one vote won't count.

Question of the week is what question establishment will take the place of that gas station on Main and Broadway. Rumor has it that the lease of this enterprise expires in a few months and will not be renewed. Same thing for the place next to the station. This rumor apparently was verified by the notice last week that the station owners had

Members pointed out that such a project was needed and urged all business firms to participate in order to keep the individual share low.

In a widely heralded address before the Commonwealth Club of California, in San Francisco last week, John Francis Neylan, a regent of the University of California, former chairman of the State Board of Control and long recognized as a fiscal expert and elder statesman, made a challenging case against current proposals for increased State taxes.

Mr. Neylan made three major points:

(1) The taxpayers of California have "the unenviable distinction of being the most tax-ridden citizens in the United States."

(2) State officials consistently, for many years passed, have under-estimated State revenues for study of the bills. This, however, is almost defeated with the increased surpluses and keeping creased number of bills. The State printer needs almost the entire recess to complete the printing of the bills.

February 24th has been set as the day the Legislature reconvenes to start considering the 5,405 measure. During the 30-day interim, the Ways and Means Committee of the Assembly will spend about two weeks putting the Governor's budget through heavy-use periods. The chart above—sized to fit families and number of appliances using hot water—is recommended by the LP-Gas Information Service.

The people of California, Mr. Neylan maintained, "do not propose that hoped-for tax relief in Washington shall lead to further extravagance in Sacramento."

From the furor created by his speech, it seems certain that Mr. Neylan's charges of fiscal waste and extravagance in State government will not be brushed aside lightly. There is every evidence that the Legislature, when it reconvenes, will not be herded into rubber-stamp adoption of the highest State budget in the Nation, and a program of higher taxes to match.

Semester examinations were completed last Thursday, at Helix High. Last Friday there was a minimum day, and the students were dismissed at 12:40. The teachers had fun spending the afternoon recording permanent record cards for our semester report cards. This new method of having term grades recorded immediately will be a service to the student and to the community. Ordinarily it requires 3 months for the office recorders to complete this task.

Trash has been cluttering the halls and grounds of the Helix campus lately. This is probably caused by students who are too lazy to walk to a trash can to deposit their trash. This small percentage of students who don't take pride in their campus throws a bad light on all students. The students who take pride in their campus should get after all who don't so we can all be proud of our campus.

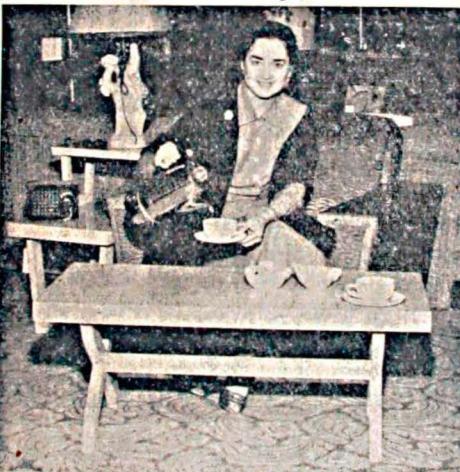

February 1st was opening date of the cafeteria. The building is completed and has been used as a classroom for three weeks. The kitchen staff has been hired although kitchen facilities have not yet been completed. Hot and cold lunches will be served at noon.

How Much Hot Water Do You Need?

If you have 2 or 3 in your family and you have a bath and a manual-type washer you need a 30-gallon water heater. If you have 4 or 5 in your family and you have a bath and an automatic washer you need a 40-gallon water heater. If you have 6 or 7 in your family and you have 1½ baths and an automatic washer you need a 50-gallon water heater. But if you have 8 or 9 in your family and two baths an automatic washer and an automatic 60-gallon water heater will be adequate.

Did you know that 70 to 85% of water used in the home is hot and there are 140 common household uses for hot water? If the supply runs out for any one of these uses, some member of your family will be inconvenienced. A "quick recovery" water heater operated by LP-Gas (also known as butane, propane, bottled and tank gas) will continue to deliver plenty of hot water even during heavy-use periods. The chart above—sized to fit families and number of appliances using hot water—is recommended by the LP-Gas Information Service.

San Diego County Historical Scrapbook*"Heroes" For Sale — 15-Hands High . . .

Like most western cities, San Diego in its early days was characterized by the preponderance of wooden houses. The fire hazard was high and losses frequent. The men and horses who rushed to the scene of a fire were heroes to young and old alike. When the growth of the city, coupled with the gradual acceptance of the motor age, finally made the fire horses "obsolete equipment," they were sold at a public auction. Recorded here, in a photograph from the historical collection of Union Title Insurance Company, is the sale of the gallant fire horses in March, 1912.

San Diego's Fire Department got its start in 1869, when a group of civic-minded and worried citizens formed a volunteer group called the Pioneer Hook and Ladder Company. It later changed to the San Diego Fire Engine Company No. 1. Although long on title, the volunteers were short on money and equipment. In 1878 they finally received a fire bell, three feet across and capable of being heard for miles. Not until 1889 was provision made for a paid Fire Department for San Diego.

K. F. to Produce Sports Car

Kaiser-Frazer became the first automobile manufacturer to announce definite plans for volume production of an American sports car. The body of the car will be made of the new lightweight durable material — fibre glass reinforced plastic, according to Hal Holiday, executive of L. G. Kaiser-Frazer Motors.

Edgar F. Kaiser, president of the manufacturing firm, said the K-F sports model is scheduled for volume production in July. Designed by Howard A. Darlin, K-F styling consulting and internationally known custom car builder, the sports car will have many entirely new features, such as sliding doors and distinctive safety innovations.

Kaiser originally disclosed last September that K-F was developing sports car bodies using polyester resins combined with fiber glass. At that time, he outlined tentative plans to build approximately 1,000 of the Darlin designed models to "determine the national sales potential of an American-built European-type sports car."

Local showing will be in mid-summer, Holiday said.

GILBERT CARLETON, Madison, Wisconsin, a few years back was the victim of failure, not a financial failure, but a partnership fail. His partner had become afflicted with the evils of too much liquor.

For two weeks he couldn't eat or sleep. He was worried sick and had a fear of meeting the people of the town. He took a night job as operator in a small electric light plant and worked from 11 pm to 7 am. This way he could work at night and sleep during the day and did not have to come in contact with people he knew.

After a month he discovered this method was no good. About this time a friend asked him to sell insurance. He was like a drowning man and grabbed the first line that was tossed to him.

In trying to sell insurance he had to talk to people. Before he realized it, he had become a good listener and was gradually forgetting his worries and getting interested in people. He discovered that under every roof there was a different story, and he cared less about making sales and more about people. He worked from twelve to sixteen hours a day, for he was anxious to find what kind of story awaited him at the next place.

Before he knew it the sales were rolling in, and at the end of the first year he had won an all expense vacation trip for his wife and himself to Chicago. At that meeting he was promoted to special representative, and last year he was appointed agency manager for Southern Wisconsin.

So his advice to you is, if we think we have worries and a story to tell, start talking to people; get interested in them; be a good listener and help them.

Farmers Can Now Quit Coddling Cobs

Farmers no longer need to coddle the cobs on which corn grows, thanks to a new advance in grain storage methods recently reported to the American Society of Agricultural Engineers.

The development is a grain drying and storage unit that makes the corn picker-sheller a practical harvesting machine for corn growers, and cuts farm labor and storage costs. D. B. Poor, agricultural engineer for the Great Lakes Steel Corporation's Structural Division, A. S. E., Farm Structures Division chairman, reported to the Society that shelled corn of up to 12% moisture content can be dried successfully with unheated air while stored in this unit.

"This means," he said, "that the time is now at hand when farmers can eliminate much of the work and structural costs they now put into coddling the cobs on which corn grows."

The unit was described as a 16-ft. wide Quonset equipped with a unique down-flow aeration system. Drying and cooling the grain are accomplished by means of a low-pressure propeller fan which draws unheated air into the building, down through the grain into a central tunnel over which the grain is piled, and then out of the building.

"This unit will handle grains other than corn equally well," Poor said. "It permits the small-grain grower to start combining earlier in the season, earlier in the day, and enables him to combine when moisture conditions are too high for placing grain in ordinary storage."

How new equipment adds up to more profitable farming is demonstrated in these pictures showing (1) a corn picker-sheller at its twin jobs; (2) compact Quonset drying and storage unit that handles crop fresh from combine, gives any grower of small grains high-quality labor-free safekeeping for his crop, saves half storage space otherwise required for each item; (3) an up-to-date grower knee-deep in his top-quality grain.

Make All Tables
Real Decorative
Assets to Rooms

By ERTTA HALEY

TAKE A LONG and critical look at all the table tops you have in your home. Do they really do something for the room, in the sense of decoration, or have they become mere catch-all for all the small accessories that you've just put there?

Careful as well as imaginative thought should be given to all tables because they can do so much for the style and harmony of the room. Table size doesn't matter, because small as well as large tables can be assets when they're treated properly.

Naturally the size of the tables should be in keeping with the room or they will violate principles of harmony and balance, but even smaller tables may be used in large rooms provided they're part of a unit in that room, say in a grouping with chairs.

This brings up another very important point in regard to tables. Never treat the table top as just a thing in itself, any more than you would another piece of furniture. Tie the table together with the room and, most particularly, with whatever it's near.

Let Hall Tables Add Interest Plus Utility

Most homes have an entrance hall which brings together the outside door with the living room. It's the most common thing in the world to have a table in the en-

The appearance of fine needlepoint is a characteristic of some of the new rugs as the one used here. Nubby weaves combined with a special weaving skill combine to capture the charm of a handwoven carpet with the beauty of contemporary colors. The ground of this wool carpet is a light beige with a flowing spray in tones of green accented with autumn colors in a berry design.

There are several kinds of end tables from which to choose. If members of the family are to spend much time reading, a step end table might be best as it will house more magazines and papers than just a table top. Another kind of end table has a shelf below the table top. Either of these is a good choice if you want to have reading matter handy.

Coffee tables are another important living room table. These are decorative, too, and they are often used to tie together two or three chairs, a sofa and chairs or something of that type. This is called a conversational grouping which will take care of several people and bring them together.

For this reason coffee tables should be attractive. They do not hold lamps, but they may hold fresh flowers in attractive containers, or a potted plant.

Place two or three ash trays and a cigarette box on the coffee table, or place some refreshment dishes such as a nut container or a candy box. Here again neatness is important. Avoid clutter.

Occasional Tables Show Interest

Most occasional tables in the living room have a lamp because they're near a chair or a group of chairs and light from the lamp makes them seem more intimate. Choose a lamp which goes with the table as well as the room. It should be in proportion to the table top under consideration.

If you have an interesting collection of pottery or figurines, the larger tables might be used for displaying these. Don't forget, too, that plant or flower arrangements are good on them.

Tilt top tables and those half circle shapes are found in the larger living rooms and these might very well be used for china collections. It's important not to use too much on any one table, of course, and those used should look well against the wall, as well as with the other furniture.

Glass, pewter, pottery and silver also look well on tables of this type. Larger pieces in your collection might be placed on wall brackets or shelf arrangements above the table, and this would make an attractive coordinated unit.

Check These Tips
For Other Table Tops

Your dining room, whether it's a separate unit or a combined one will have a great deal of opportunity for decorative table tops. The dining table itself has an opportunity for many different kinds of accessories.

One of the simplest dining table arrangements is a plant or seasonal flowers which may be kept on for the centerpiece during meals. Keep plant or centerpiece in a low, shallow type bowl, for during dining it's important not to have anything too high which might prevent people from seeing each other to talk comfortably.

Period dining rooms have opportunity for other dining table arrangements. An Early American dining table might for example have a quaint china piece in the center, flanked on either side with hurricane lamps. This same type of thing might be used on buffet or sideboard.

Sideboards or buffets might have a center arrangement of fruit, plants or flowers. Candelabra which may or may not go on the dining table during mealtime might be used, too, to give a balanced arrangement.

Colorful dishes, pottery, silverware or other dining accessories might be displayed on the wall above the buffet.

Select proportioned lamps . . .

A table in the hall is there for a definite purpose. It should add a subtle note of welcome to the room to which it's an entrance. In that case you might want a picture above the table or even a rack for letters.

Branches at this season of the year, or flowers when they're in season, arranged thoughtfully in a long vase, reaching to the picture on the wall tie the table and picture together. This, then, is very definitely an asset to the hall, for the picture and branches add warmth and welcome.

The practical motive of the table in the hall is the fact that it may be used for gloves, keys and mail. For this reason it's best to leave the top clear, except for the vase.

You say you need the table top for books? It just isn't suitable for that. One doesn't sit in the entrance hall for reading purposes. Books should be in living room, library or bedroom where there are comfortable chairs and good lighting for reading.

Living Room Tables Have Many Uses

Since the living room is really designed for "living" or family or social life, there are many different kinds of tables which may be used. The accessories on them depend to a large degree on just what your own personal interests are.

Let's think for a moment about those tables which are placed next to couches or chairs. This is done mainly for convenience as well as

Grove Boy Scouts Barstow Report on Incorporation

Here is a report, published in the Barstow Printer-Review on October 12, 1950 and sums up the state of the city after two years of incorporation.

A large window display in Carr's Hardware Store, Lemon Grove, will show Scouting in miniature. All work on this display is being done by the Scout members of the Troop. Make a date to see this display February 7th thru February 13th.

In publishing this report the Review is following its policy of presenting as much material possible on all sides of the question of incorporation-annexation.

Editor.

Here is a story run in the Barstow Printer-Review following incorporation of their community.

The Review publishes it in the interest of the public as information only and not as an endorsement for incorporation.

The Review neither approves nor disapproves incorporation for Lemon Grove at present and will take a definite position only when investigation reports are in and studied.

The Barstow report then will show what effect a change in community government had on Barstow.

Incorporation Is Profitable

By Caryl Krouser
(reprinted from the Barstow Printer-Review, Barstow, Calif.)
October 12, 1950

The City of Barstow is very healthy financially according to the second annual report released by City Clerk Earl E. Stanton, and published in this newspaper last week.

In the old days (before incorporation) every cent of money to run the various special districts was raised by direct taxation on the property owners. It is most interesting to note that of the total governmental receipts of $133,508.69; only $32,432.79 was raised by taxes. Where did the balance of the money come from?

Well, the state gave as an outright gift to the City of Barstow some $32,762.46 in liquor and gasoline taxes. The special districts would have received not one dime of this money, which is given free to an area, once it becomes incorporated.

If you read the financial report, you also noticed that the City of Barstow received $21,882.23 in court fines and parking fees in court fines and parking fees in preparation for the Area Speckoff in which the winner county will compete with the Coronado and South Bay Toastmistress Clubs.

The first group of speeches is to be presented in the next meeting Wednesday, February 11, at 11 a.m. in Rose Hedge Manor.

Speakers for the evening and their topics will be Mrs. David Cleve from Licenses, Franchises, Hentigan, "The Time of Your and grants account for a total of Life"; Mrs. C. H. Jennings, "Out $101,075.90. If Barstow were not of Character"; Mrs. R. B. Kalan incorporated but had to run its club, "On My Honor"; and Mrs. various services through special C. Oldsen, "A Guide to Living."

Guest judges for the speckoff include Mrs. Merle McPherrin, Mr. Adel Lieb, and a Toastmaster to be appointed from the Melix chapter.

pared by Mrs. I. H. Webber, and some opposition to incorporation, they? The tax bill has been reduced. And more important we have a variety of special services that we didn't have before.

First is the police department, which provides protection to person and property. We know our school kids are safe. Every school crossing is patrolled by a policeman during school hours. There have been no major accidents within the City of Barstow since the city incorporated. This is due largely to the efficient work of Chief of Police Floyd W. Howard. He anticipates and prevents accidents.

Not necessarily in order but equally in importance to the progressive development of Barstow is the city planning commission. They have zoned the city. Residential values are protected by not allowing businesses, including junk yards and glue shops, near your home or mine. Business values are protected by allowing only certain sections for business or manufacturing purposes.

And we are all proud of our street department. They have graded more alleys and paved more streets in one year than the county did in 10 years. And most of the city funds have been used for purchase of one-time capital equipment, such as trucks and graders. Clarence Williams, street superintendent, is responsible for the neat, clean looking appearance of the streets, the trimming of trees overhanging the streets, and constant repair and maintenance of our city streets. Remember, three years back some of our streets looked like a public dump yard. Incorporation has changed all this.

Our engineering department under the supervision of City Engineer Gale Kenyon is also due for a great deal of praise. We made two additions to our newspaper building recently. The city building department saw to it that the job was properly done and in accordance with specifications. Protection is given the property owner. Formerly, persons could erect shacks anywhere. They can no longer do this within the city limits. We like this provision, but there are some few persons who would like to build anything anywhere. Nowdays the building codes are enforced. In addition, no assembly building can be erected unless there is provision made for parking cars.

Big money never knew Barstow existed until Barstow incorporated. Drive out to West Barstow, Drive out to East Barstow, Drive out to South Barstow. Everywhere you will see new homes under construction. There has conservatively been several million dollars of new construction, both residential and business, since Barstow incorporated.

Insurance and trust companies have been behind much of this building. The important thing is that construction stops at the city limits. Some of the sub-dividers have attempted to have tracts approved for financing outside of the city limits. The answer is No. Big money will not go outside of an incorporated city.

Incorporation in Barstow has paid off financially from the very first. The first financial year, the City of Barstow closed its books with a total of $56,191.26 cash on hand. And the first year saw the purchase of three new police cars, the expenses of setting up a new city government and many and various one-time expenses.

This year the city closed its book with a total of $208,133.19 cash on hand, which includes $140,900 in the account for the expansion of sewers in Barstow.

The financial picture of incorporation is indeed rosy. But even if it cost more, which it does not, people would still want incorporation. The main reason is that we govern ourselves. This is done through five councilmen elected by the People of Barstow. We can all attend the meetings on the first and third Mondays of each month. We can take part in our own government. We can ask for and receive special services. Aside from money there are many intangible values to incorporation.

If you read the financial report, you also noticed that the City of Barstow received $21,882.23 in court fines and parking fees in preparation for the Area Speckoff in which the winner county will compete with the Coronado and South Bay Toastmistress Clubs.

Olio Gets $700 from Grove schools

A March of Dimes campaign throughout the schools in the Lemon Grove School District resulted in approximately seven hundred dollars donated to the olio foundation program. The La Mesa School with Clarence Allen principal, led the district with contributions mounting to about one hundred and eighty dollars. Golden Avenue, San Miguel, Monterey Heights, and the Intermediate schools all reported very successful campaigns with 100% participation on the part of both students and teachers. Sincere thanks go to Mrs. Robert Hitchcock of Spring Valley who appeared at all the district schools for assembly programs with her famous puppets and trained dogs. By stimulating interest among the children, Mrs. Hitchcock performed a valuable service to the drive. Other guests at the various assemblies helped to drive reach its goal here. Everywhere in the Lemon Grove area P. T. A. health chairman aided in counting the dimes given to fight polio by the boys and girls. In various classrooms interest was heightened by colorful bulletin boards showing the progress of the March of Dimes schools.

Byron Netley, school principal, declares that one of the grade school teachers here actually had one of the small pupils announce proudly that he wanted to study philanthropy because those people are always wealthy.

A new note was added to the forecast for Lemon Grove's future. This was the knowledge that the county plans to build a new library for this area. Not only are plans for same existent, but some money has been set aside, or can be. Oddly enough, were Lemon Grove to incorporate the library could still be constructed, but not so if the area was annexed to a currently existing city. As a city of its own, Lemon Grove could assume the cost of the library construction and maintenance under a special arrangement. Since the city to which Lemon Grove could be annexed has a separate library setup from the county organization, a similar transfer is not possible.

HATS OFF BUREAU:

All of you who appreciated the March of Dimes Dance atmosphere of trouble-free merriment owe a pat-on-the-back to WILLIE RIGLEY, and PAPPY HENSLEY, our deputy-sheriff and fire chief.

A not so well known story on the dance is that the two men, on their own volition, and not as from her jumbled thoughts someone "cops," decided to attend the afternoon, off duty, and without pay. If he said more Sandra didn't until recently, have eaten all good thing they did go. Two who have never had a cemetery.

The Lemon Grove 4-H Electrical Club met last Friday, January 30, at the home of Larry Priest, 1715 Englewood Street, Monterey Heights. They invite any boys in the district who are over ten years of age and interested in working with electrical projects to attend their meetings. The group meets each Friday evening at 7:30 at the Priest residence. Fred Hawkins, club president, extends this invitation to the youth of Lemon Grove.

Student officer petitions are being circulated in the school this week. An assembly is planned for Friday to give council aspirants a chance to air their views on student affairs.

San Miguel School is one year old this week and students as well as faculty members are looking back on a year of hard work and accomplishment. The year in review will be presented at next week's flag ceremony.

Lemon Grove Hi-Y

Robert Turnbull

The Lemon Grove Hi-Y held its weekly meeting at the home of their president. It was decided that from now on all meetings shall be held at my house. The meeting was a little weak because of the absence of our Treasurer, Vice-President, and Chaplain, on account of the flu. We discussed future business, and had 4 new prospective members there. They were Ralph Richardson, Skip Kenney, Jerry Rotes, and Jim Parsons. The entertainment for that evening was two movies. One a comedy, the other was a World Service Film on India. After refreshments every one piled into three cars (8), and we went over to the L. M. Youth Center. We are now engaged in the "San Diego Hi-Y Basketball Tournament" and we have a 1-1 score. We lost to Escondido Hi-Y, and beat a Chula Vista Hi-Y. If we drop another game, we are entered into the Consolation Division.

Troop Sponsors Reading Drive

The new Lemon Grove Senior Scout Troop is sponsoring a pocket-book mysteries and magazine drive for the boys in Korea. The Scout's next meeting is to be held at the home of Joan Manchester at 2673 Massachusetts Ave. at 7:30 p.m. All are welcome to come. The Scouts are also offering their services for baby sitting. ## Surprise Party By Virgie Evans Roger

In the dining room of her apartment Sandra Cunningham yanked open the bottom drawer of her buffet. Which table cloth to use? The answer was simultaneous with the question—her best, of course. She pulled the lacy flounce from the bottom of the stack. What this be the night for her and Jim?

Dinner for two, by candlelight, her heart sang, as she placed a tall white taper on each side of the red roses Jim had sent. He usually brought his flowers—when the roses had arrived by messenger soon after she got home from the office. Ah, she smiled, as she brought out her hope chest two-piece setting of sterling, was this his way of saying be ready?

Returning to the kitchenette she took a package from the small refrigerator and unwrapped the luscious looking T-bone steaks, Jim's favorite. "Beautiful," she exclaimed under her breath, momentarily pausing to admire them before preparing for the broiler.

She lifted the lid to check the bubbling potatoes as the telephone rang sharply. "Oh, don't let it be Jim saying he can't come," she prayed.

"Hi, cookie," Jim said as she answered. "Do I smell chicken?" he teased.

"Just wait and see," she sang, anticipating his delight over the juicy steaks.

"Mind if I spring a little surprise on you?" he asked.

"Please," she begged. "Don't say you can't come."

"On the contrary. Could I bring someone along? I have a friend."

His words cut like a double-edged knife. Noises hammered in her ears. She couldn't believe she had heard right, "Girl friend?" she tried to hold her voice steady.

"Just a little surprise," he announced casually.

Little surprise! The bottom had on the dance is that the two men, on their own volition, and not as from her jumbled thoughts someone "cops," decided to attend the afternoon, off duty, and without pay.

If he said more Sandra didn't

Farewell For Dona Vogler

The Youth Choir of the Congregational Church held a farewell party for Dona Vogler, who is moving to Pomona, last Wednesday evening at the home of their director, Mrs. H. L. Hensley.

An evening of dancing and games was enjoyed after which refreshments were served and Miss Vogler was presented with a going-away gift.

Those members attending were:

THE DAWDLE DELL Speaker and Fish Fry Society at its monthly program last night upstairs over the barber shop had as guest artist Magnus Stupor, the hypnotist. He put Judge Crooker into a trance and couldn't snap him out of it.

Judge is such a good sport that he'd let a legally registered voter of the right politics give his wife a hot foot in the line of good clean fun as guest artist Magnus Stupor, the hypnotist. He put Judge Crooker into a trance and couldn't snap him out of it.

Christ's approachability was one of His most appealing traits. At the fame of the Savior grew and spread, so did the crowds that surrounded Him wherever He went. One might think that the multitude of His admirers would have made Christ inaccessible to individuals. His followers sometimes tried to keep people from "bothering" Him; but the Master was always ready to listen and help anyone, at any time.

Christ's approachability was demonstrated beyond all question when He was preaching at a house at Capharnaum. So eager were the people to hear Him that they not only crowded into every available space in the room, but even congregated in large numbers outside. Under such circumstances, one might think none would dare seek to "buttonhole" Christ and speak to Him, of personal needs or problems.

But the Scriptures relate otherwise. Outside the house was a poor invalid whom four of his friends had carried there on a stretcher. There was no chance of getting through the throng at the door, so his friends took the sick man and all up, to the roof and lowered him through an opening to the very feet of Christ. There was confusion and murmuring among the densely-packed crowd. No doubt many berated the sick man for what they considered his temerity and presumption.

Magnus grew desperate and plunged the diamond stick pin into the seat of justice. Judge changes his key but not his tune. Magnus was arrested by Constable Starr Badgett for illegal exertion of influence upon the court.

THIS MORNING at Magnus trial, Judge Crooker presiding. Defense Lawyer Craft Wiley pulled a fast one and asked, "What is your decision, your honor, guilty or pe-nuts?"

"Peanuts!" sang the judge.

That hypnotist left town mighty quick. To bring the judge back to himself, Doc Shakewell took him out to the stockyards and put him in a pen with some Shropshires hoping he would think he was judging hogs at the county fair and remember who he was. But he thought he was judging the hog contest and kissed one of the prettier pigs. That brought him around.

Do It Yourself!

BY BOB AND BETTY BROWN

A ROTTED, BROKEN STEP CAN MEAN A BROKEN LEG

"Ouch! my ankle!" cried Betty, staggering down the back steps. "What's up?" called Bob, her husband. "Forget that rotted stair again?"

"Yes I did," snapped Betty, "and if you don't fix it soon, somebody's going to break a leg."

"Okay, Pet," soothed Bob, "I'll get it at right away. I've got a piece of lumber here...."

"No you don't," Betty interrupted. "You'll see Dan at the lumber yard, and fix that step right with lumber that's been pressure-treated with Chemonite, Creosote or some other long-lasting preservative that won't wash out."

"But that's expensive," Bob protested.

"Not at all, Bob. Such lumber would last five times as long against fungus rot and termites and Dan says the added cost won't run $3.00 more."

TEENER...

week.

By Beverly Henderson

"Tiny, cute and talented," that describes this week's teener, Patricia Farrell, daughter of the O. L. Farrels. Pat is an even 5', and weighs 108 lbs. She has brown hair and brown eyes.

Her school record shows that she has attended San Diego High, La Jolla, Kearny, Roosevelt, Memorial and Southwest, and Helix High where she is now a senior. She has been a resident of Lemon Grove for about 9 months and originally coming from Pacific Beach where she was born 17 years ago. She is an active member of the Senior Tri-Y Teens (recently elected historian), Girls League, and the 4-H service committee. Her other activities include roller skating, bowling, baton twirling, dancing (she won a trophy in 1950 in an amateur-dancing contest), and selling toys at Kress's in San Diego.

A good jazz or pop disc, along with a chocolate malt could keep Pat very contented. Her pet peeve is boys that go out of their way to be rude and sarcastic.

Commercial art has been her high school major, but she intends to work in a bank after graduation. Pat's great ambition is to be a band majorette or a professional dancer.

TWO HEADS ARE BETTER THAN ONE

John's first epistle (4:12-13) where he writes, "If we love one another, God dwelleth in us, and his love is perfected in us. Hereby know we that we dwell in him, and he in us, because he hath given us of his Spirit."

keep them from killing themselves, in such quantities that we don't even read the newspaper reports about it unless some friend of ours happened to be in the smash. If as many people died in your town of polio, or of typhoid fever, as die in accidents, you would all be in almost a panic.

A Word We Need

There is an old English word that is not used often nowadays. Maybe the reason it is seldom used is that the thing it means is seldom met with. It is the word "compassion." Literally, it means "suffering-with." When it is said by Matthew that Jesus had compassion on the crowds, it means literally that he knew how they felt, what they needed, where they hurt; and that in his own heart he suffered with them. Their needs were his needs, their pain his pain. That is compassion; but it is not yet the whole of it. There is something more. An artist (let us say a novelist) has to have compassion, o' sort. Many novels and stories have been written, for instance, about bull-fighters, and some of the story-tellers have shown a high degree of imaginative power. You might almost fancy they had been bullfighters themselves, as to be sure some of them have been. But few if any of these story-writers have done anything to put a stop to the brutal sport of bull-fighting. They feel the tragedy of the whole business yet they do not propose to do anything about it. Compassion, as Jesus felt it, never was a mere emotion. It was emotion harnessed to action.

Harrassed and Helpless

The Revised Standard Version translates beautifully Matthew's description of the crowds who moved Jesus to compassion. They were "harrassed and helpless," he says. The interesting thing is that it took Jesus to see this. Some could see only that there were a lot of people, and they took up a lot of room or time for Jesus to eat. Others—the "charisees"—could see only their ignorance. This multitude that knows not the law is accursed! Others (as was the case with the disciples on a later occasion) realized only that the crowd looked hungry. Well, the people were numerous, they were no doubt ignorant, and most of them were chronically ill-fed. But the point is, the people who saw them in this light did not have compassion; all they felt was annoyance. The crowds were a nuisance. Jesus felt quite different toward them. He saw them as they were, harassed and helpless. You yourself run into crowds, or you read about them. How do they strike you? Do they frighten you, amuse you, annoy you or make you angry? The masses today are very little different from the masses in Jesus' time. Can you see them as they are, harassed and helpless? And does it stir you to do something about it? Then you know something about the compassionate heart.

The Innmost Need

There is another important fact about Jesus' compassion. One cannot call it unique, for the best Christians have shared it. He was able to see beneath the surface of things to people's real needs. The young man brought by his four friends to Jesus probably was thinking chiefly about his helpless arms and legs. Jesus looked and saw his helpless soul. The publican Matthew may well have felt sorry for himself because business was bad, or because he was not popular. Jesus' compassion went deeper; he felt Matthew's real need—to get away from the publican business altogether. Compassion goes even deeper than sympathy; it is spiritual interpretation.
